Background Information:

The integral functioning of Lesotho's mountainous ecosystems is vital not only to the livelihoods and welfare of its people, but for the delivery of ecosystem services and global environmental benefits to a large part of Southern Africa. The mountainous Kingdom is the source of rivers that reach the Atlantic Ocean in the west and supply an increasing proportion of the water consumed in South Africa's industrial heartland. Therefore, sustainable use and management of ecosystems in Lesotho is a vital ingredient of broader environmental wellbeing.

The UNDP Lesotho Country Office and the Government of Lesotho will implement a GEF-financed project "Reducing vulnerability from climate change in Foothills, lower Lowlands and Senqu River" for five year (2016-2020). The objective of the project is to mainstream climate risk considerations into the Land Rehabilitation Programme of Lesotho for improved ecosystem resilience and reduced vulnerability of livelihoods to climate shocks. The project will support the integration of climate change adaptation into national and sub-national land use planning and decision-making. - i. Promoting the efficient use of land resources by integrating climate risk considerations into land use planning and decision making;
- ii. Empowering rural communities with skills to maintain a balance between agricultural production and demands for non-agricultural land uses;
- iii. Strengthening the community-based management of natural resources and;
- iv. Addressing institutional and technical limitations
